

CAPTAIN'S WRITER IS MISSING

Said to Have a Shortage of $100 in His Accounts.

With the visit of the Postoffice Inspector William W. Stone of Concord to this city Tuesday, it became known that naval officials are exercised over the sudden departure of the Captain's writer from the naval station and the alleged shortage of his accounts. While naval officers are reticent as to the situation, it is said that they fear that the accounts of the absent writer will reveal a shortage of $1000.

Mr. Stone was summoned to this city in a message that left the navy yard yesterday. Upon his arrival in this city he immediately boarded the government ferry and was conveyed to the navy yard. At the naval station he went immediately to the gun-boat Eagle and was engaged throughout the day in examining the accounts of the former Captain's writer.

In the absence of the commanding officer of the vessel the junior officers refused to discuss the case or to admit that the sudden disappearance of the writer caused any anxiety as to his accounts.

It became known, however, that a sailor who served as captain's writer and who for some time has been the mail orderly of the vessel has departed that his present whereabouts is unknown. It was also reported among the men that the officers expect from a cursory examination of his accounts, that a shortage of $1000 exists.

NOT UNTIL AFTER ELECTION

Will Roosevelt's Would-Be Assassin Be Brought to Trial, According to State Attorney Zabel

Milwaukee, Oct. 15.—State Attorney Winfred C. Zabel of Milwaukee county tonight definitely announced that John Schrank, Colonel Roosevelt's assassin, would not be brought to trial until after the national election. He said to be the only Socialist State attorney in the country, gave three specific reasons for his decision to put off
the trial for one month.

He said, first, that it was only reasonable to await the results of Colonel Roosevelt's injury; second, he had no desire to crowd the defendant, and third, it was his opinion that it would be unwise to call the case during the final struggle in the presidential campaign.

"It is my desire to try this case justly and expeditiously," said Mr. Zabel, "and this will be done, but we wish to avoid having the plain criminal aspects of the case in any way involved in the national political situation. It would not be fair to any of the por-sons involved to do so. If we went to trial before election day, it is almost certain that the matter would be dragged into the campaign by one or another of the big political parties."

The prosecutor said that as far as surface indications went, Schrank was sane.
"If Schrank is insane," said Mr. Zabel, "it seems that there is method in his madness when he selects for the scene of his crime a state where there is no capital punishment. Also I am informed in messages from New York
there has been no insanity in Schrank's family, as far as can be traced."

The state's attorney said he believed

Schrank had no accomplices or advisers in the crime. The plea of guilty filed by Schrank at his preliminary hearing before Judge N. B. Neelon in the district court today is looked upon as merely perfunctory by the public prosecutor's office.

"I shall permit Schrank to withdraw that plea of guilty when he goes to trial if he so desires," said Mr. Zabel.
Schrank spent a quiet afternoon and evening in his cell at the county jail.
At the prisoner's request, Sheriff William A. Arnold refused to let anyone into the cell house to see him.

Just before he lay down to sleep tonight, Schrank expressed the first words of regret he has uttered since the shooting.

"I'm sorry I shot," said Schrank, as a deputy sheriff was locking him up for the night.

Then Schrank dropped down on his cot and within half an hour was sleeping "just like a kid," as the jail attendants expressed it. The prisoner at no time has asked to see a newspaper or made any inquiry regarding Colonel Roosevelt's condition. So far as the jail attaches know, Schrank tonight was not informed as to whether Colonel Roosevelt was dead or alive.

Much interest centered in the chemical tests on the remaining bullet from Schrank's revolver, which were started this afternoon by Prof. R. E. W. Sumner of Marquette university, to determine if the bullet with which Colonel Roosevelt was shot had been poisoned.
Professor Sumner tonight declared it

The official ballot to be used at the November election will be a blanket affair. Those for the ordinary towns will be 20x20 inches with six columns for candidates and the questions submitted by the constitutional convention arranged beneath. For Manchester and Nashua, the ballots will be somewhat larger, measuring 23 inches in length by 20 in width. The work of preparing the copy for the printers is now under full headway at the office of the secretary of state.

LARGE APPLES.
Handsome Baldwins on Exhi-

The finest specimen of the Baldwin apple that has been seen in many years is held by Manager H. H. Burton of the depot cafe. The apples are from the Leary farm in Greenland and four of them tip the scales at three pounds and four ounces.

Farmers declare them to be the largest in size of this species that they have ever gazed upon.

ARRESTED FOR THEFT OF COPPER

Two Workmen Were Engaged in Hauling Off a Large Quantity of the Metal

Two navy yard workmen, Jesse Hood and Joseph Saunders, were placed under arrest on Tuesday afternoon for the larceny of metal from the reservation. The men were detected in the steel by the marine guard at the main gate shortly after 5 o'clock as they attempted to get by with stolen property in a wagon.

The two men have been working several days cutting up old metal and while at work arranged for the transportation of the junk to this city.
The lot made up of copper, brass and composition was neatly boxed up and addressed for shipment. When weighed the lot tipped the scales at 438 pounds. This metal is now sold at nine cents per pound. For some time metal of all kinds has disappeared from the yard and Hood and Saunders have been watched very closely in their movements. On Tuesday afternoon they did not report for work and came in later to prepare for the haul. Today they were taken before the federal authorities at Portland.

Doing Phony Business.

The people of this city have received a warning against two negro women who are out soliciting funds and claiming to represent a home for aged

Through the kindly interests of Secretary Edmund C. Sullivan of the Hampshire boards have been warned of the situation and by the efforts of both,

it is very probable with the publicity the women will not try larger cities of this state. In Salem, Mass., the women

SPEAKING DATES ARE CANCELLED

Col. Roosevelt Will Not Be Heard Here on Oct. 28.

An Associated Press dispatch states that Ex President Roosevelt has announced through his secretary the cancellation of all his speaking dates because of the attempt on his life Monday night. This will mean that he will not be heard in Portsmouth on the morning of the 28th as had been arranged.

As announced in the dispatch the cancellation is made provisionally that nothing unforeseen develops, but should his recovery warrant his delivering a restricted number of addresses there is no probability that the candidate for the presidency will visit New Hampshire.
The attempt on Mr. Roosevelt's life has caused much indignation among all classes in this city, be they fren-d or foe of the former president, and many will hear with great disappointment that he will be unable to fill his engagement here.

TWO COLORED MEN HELD AT NAVY YARD

Two colored men employed at the Navy Yard were retained on Tuesday afternoon as they were about to leave the yard. Later the men were sent to the marine barracks where they were held over night pending an investigation. It is understood that the disappearance of metal about the yard was the cause of the arrest.

FINANCING THE FARMERS

While others have been talking about the country life commission and the welfare of the farmers, President Taft has been doing. And he has done something practical and worth foreign systems and seeking ways and means whereby American farmers will be enabled to borrow more easily and cheaply than at present and presents the results of his thought and inquiry to the several Governors of states who are to have their annual meeting and conference at Washington in December. What he proposes is a plan to reduce the cost of foodstuffs, and hence the cost of living, by reducing to the farmer the cost of producing his crops. And this is to be done by establishing in the interest of the farmer a financial institution which would give him access to the money centers and afford him credit at greatly reduced rates and up on more advantageous terms than he now receives. The plan suggested by him is based upon the principles of the agricultural cooperative credit system in use in European countries. But to be successful it requires uniform state legislation, and so the president invites the Governors to a conference upon the subject.

The need of such a thing is realized by none more forcibly than by the farmers themselves. Although they own the most stable and valuable property in the world, the soil on the ery and like. The merchant and manufacturer depends, they find it the hardest to get accommodation when they want to borrow money for improvements to develop farm and stock, buy machinery and live. The merchant and manufacturer find no difficulty of the sort. The banks take their papers readily, but the farmer is handicapped. As the president points out the 12,000,000 farmers in the United States add each year to the national wealth $8,400,000,000. They are doing this on a borrowed capital of $6,040,000,000, or which they pay annual interest charges of $10,000,000, an average of 1 1/2 per cent as compared with a rate of 3 1/2 to 4 1/2 per cent paid by the farmer in France or Germany. This difference of 4 to 5 per cent if secured by the American farmer, would mean lifting from him the burden of $240,000,000 to $200,000,000 a year an enormous sum.

How is it to be done? The state department through its diplomatic officers has been engaged during the past year in an investigation of the agricultural credit systems in Europe. Study of their reports and recommendations, the president says, convinces him of the adaptability to American conditions of the plan of the Raiffeisen banks of Germany. The establishment of such banks however would be matters of state control. To the end of establishing the farmers to borrow at lower rates, the President suggests the establishment of land mortgage banks under state charter and the information of cooperative

best for shortening and frying

Cottolene will help you immensely in trying to "make both ends meet" by cutting down your butter bills. Use butter on your table, but not in your kitchen. With butter at present prices, you simply could not afford to use it in cooking, even if it would produce better results. But when Cottolene will shorten and fry as good as or even better than butter—and the price is about one-third—why not try it, and practice economy without feeling that you are "skimping" yourself or your table?

Remember also that two-thirds of a pound of Cottolene will go as far as a pound of either butter or lard. Cottolene is Nature's shortening—a vegetable product—healthful, digestible, in every way satisfactory.

THE W. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY

Two Scenes in Fifth Game of World's Series and Youngster who Pitched

New York, October 16—It seems that the world's series was made for the confusion of prophets. Here everybody had it in the papers about how Larry Gardner had it all over poor Charlie Herzog at third base, and the Marylander makes a show of his opponent, Charles, leads on Giant regulars and everybody else in the series, save H. McCormick, in hitting. The latter is a champion pinch hitter from the wad of gum on the button of his cap down to the suffi-mortgage bond societies along the lines of Landshaften societies in Germany provided uniform state legislation can be secured. And as a later step he favors the enactment by Congress permitting the organization of national land mortgage banks to be operated under government supervision with power to guarantee and market the guaranteed debenture bonds of the state land mortgage banks or cooperative societies.

That is a proposition which ought to strike everybody favorably. It looks feasible and it would strike a long felt want. It is no untried theory; it has been tried over the water and has proved good. Of course it is hard to get identical state laws on any subjects, but this is a matter that should appeal to the assembled governors as to give it a good start and when it is clearly presented to the several legislatures it should appeal to them all so. They know the need of rural banks, the difficulty of the farmers in getting loans, and the undue burden of interest upon them. It is a subject which no previous administration has thought of investigating. The president is breaking new ground. If all hands are reasonable the President's suggestions should bear fruit within a year or two. Hardly anything more practical in the interest of not only the farmers but of the consumers should be proposed.

SAFETY FOR $5,000 MORE.

President Taft Puts That Number of Fourth-Class Postmasters in the Classified Service.

New York, Oct. 15.—President Taft, on board the yacht Mayflower today, signed an executive order putting 35,000 fourth-class postmasters in the classified service.

The execution of this order will put every fourth-class postmaster in the United States under the Civil Service, 25,000 having previously been put in the classified list by the president. Postmaster General Hitchcock brought the new order to New York today and boarded the Mayflower to witness the battleship review. While postmasters in the designated class will be taken care of under the order, unless proved unfit, vacancies in the future will be filled by the Civil Service Commission upon reports of post-office inspectors in the case of offices paying less than $500 a year. For offices paying more than $500 a year one of three applicants in highest standing will be chosen.

ent roles of his feet. Tris Speaker was commonly expected to wear horns in the series, but Red John Murray holds him even in hitting and every other way. The matter in which Harry Hooper stands out in hitting over Devore and Snodgrass is quite prominent, not to say conspicuous. However if it hadn't been for Josh the series would have been over these few lines reach your eye. While Helme Wagner isn't hitting to any startling extent, the pastime

PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN REGULATES STOMACH

Time it! In Five Minutes Gas, Sourness and Indigestion is Gone

Do some foods you eat, lit back-taste good, but work badly; ferment into stultuous lumps, and cause sick, sour, gassy stomach? Now Mr. or Mrs. Diapepsin get this done; Pape's Diapepsin digests everything, leaving nothing to sour and upset you. There never was anything so safely quick, so thoroughly effective. No difference how badly your stomach is disordered you will get happy relief in five minutes, but what pleases you most is that it strengthens and regulates your stomach so that you can eat your favorite foods without fear.

Most remedies give you relief sometimes—they are slow but sure. Diapepsin is quick, positive and puts your stomach in a healthy condition so the misery won't come back.

You feel different as soon as Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach. Distress just vanishes, your stomach gets sweet, no gas, no belching, no eruptions of undigested food, your head clears, and you feel fine.

Go now, make the best investment you ever made, by getting a large fifty cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder.

READING PAPERS.

A fellow with nothing else to do has been taking note of how people read newspapers. "One man," he says, "will pounce upon the first page, another upon sports; some go straight to the market column, some to want ads, others to society, theaters and what not." All of which ought to be pretty well understood by this time.

But the gentleman himself has a system of his own. First, he reads the weather; then baseball; then real estate, and after that the editorial page. After that he turns to the first page, and reads the headlines.

Now, if one really desired to know how everybody reads the paper, he would have to know everybody, for might have had a New York ending if it hadn't been for his two horn hands. Larry Doyle's work at second and at bat has been very poor. Mathewson has twirled two good games and Marquard has shown up fairly well. All the Boston pitchers have twirled grand ball. Yerkes, the Sox second baseman, has put up a fine all around game. Bedient pitched a masterly game against the Giants in the fifth battle.

hardly any two people follow the same system in reading the paper, and very few of them have any system at all in reading.

Ask almost any one how he reads the paper and he will have to stop and study. Then he is likely to tell you that it makes a lot of difference whether he reads it under what conditions he attempts to "look through the paper." If he is on his way home, upon a street car, it is generally the first page that attracts his attention. He knows that he cannot do anything like concentration upon the car, so he scans the headlines of the first page. If he should be at home, after the evening meal, he reads more deliberately, more thoroughly. He is then more likely to pass lightly over the first page, with its headlines of murder and fire and flood and storm, and to get down to that in which he is especially interested—the market reports, to the real estate matters, to the political contributions to editorial discussions, and so on.

The "best read" people are those who have a system of reading, those who know what they read for and who have a time for reading. But every one does not go to that trouble, if it is trouble. Perhaps a majority of people do not know why they read a paper.—Dayton News would be impossible to determine this before tomorrow noon. His method involved the use of guinea pigs. He scamped the surface of the bullets, removing all talow and other substances used for coating the leaden missile, and made a solution of the substance. This he used for the inoculation of guinea pigs, to discover if any poison had been used.

Schrank, when questioned on this point, denied emphatically that he had used poisoned bullets.

Milwaukee was remarkably quiet tonight considering the tension of last night after the shooting in front of the Gilpatrick hotel. Although expressions of deep regret for the occurrence and of solicitude inquiry to "Colonel" Roosevelt's condition were heard everywhere, there was little talk of possible violence against the former president's would-be assassin.

At no time today was there a crowd in the vicinity of either the central police station or the county jail, and Chief of Police Jamieson and Sheriff Arnold said they expected no trouble of any sort.

"LITTLE BOY BLUE"

3rd Big Week of Henry W. Savage's Joyous Operetta at Majestic Theatre, Boston, Starts Next Monday, October 21.

The Scotch operetta, "Little Boy Blue" began the second week of its stay at the Majestic Theatre last Monday night before a large audience that signified its approval of the Henry W. Savage production by continued applause and other evidences of appreciation. There can no longer be doubt of the success of this pretentious and dainty offering and Little Boy Blue is surely in for a long and prosperous run.

While Scotch atmosphere is not lacking in this offering and it is pleasing to Scotch people, it is rather Frenchified idea of the subject and has a direct appeal to all classes of play goers. Musically the operetta is all that could be desired and the singers have the advantage of assistance from an orchestra of grand proportions. There is one number that sets the audience to swaying and humming in unison with the fingers and that is a "more than pleasing" duet called "Love Never Dies" which is rendered by Miss Bryan and Mr. Farman. Not in a long time in Boston has there been heard anything more catchy than this number.

"Little Boy Blue" is a big production in everything that the phrase implies both as to the ability of the principals and the numerically strength of the company. Both Gertrude Bryan and Eva Fallon have made hits in the title role, it having been found necessary to have two prima donnas owing to the exacting requirements of the part. The leading comedian Otis Harlan keeps everybody in good nature and individually successes have been scored by John Dunsmore, Franklyn Farman, Maude Odell and Kathryn Stephenson. Thursday night, October 17th the bank officers attend the performance in a body.

GIANTS WALLOP THE RED SOX IN FINE SHAPE

Drive Joe Wood From Box in First Inning and Score Six Times--Hall Unable to Hold Them.

Sir Joe Wood, the pride of the Red Sox and New England fans, was unhorsed from his perch among the mighty, by the Giants on Tuesday afternoon, when they slammed his delivery for seven hits and six runs in one solitary inning. It was a terrible slaughter and it resulted in the Giants now being on even terms with the Red Sox and the final game will be played today.

The Giants gave the Red Sox the worse beating any good series team ever received. The final score being 11 to 4, for Charlie Hall who succeeded Wood was unable to hold the Giants and they scored five runs on eleven hits.

The Red Sox were completely demoralized and failed to bat anywhere with men on bases. At one time the bases were full but nobody was able to come across with a hit.

The deciding game will be played today and the indications are that Wood and Mathewson will pitch. It is figured that no team can ever repeat that first inning on Joe Wood and that he will be a good choice. Bedient who pitched such a splendid game on Saturday is also likely to pitch.

The Giants won the game in the first inning. Devore hit to Wagner who was slow handling it and he was safe at first. Doyle singled to center. Devore being held at second. Devore and Doyle executed a double steal. Wood's pitch to the plate being low, and Cady maring no attempt to throw out either runner. Devore and Doyle scored on Snodgrass' base hit to right. Murray sacrificed. Snodgrass to third on a grounder to Stahl. Snodgrass scored on a single by Merkle, who took second on the throw in to catch Snodgrass. The wind carried Merkle's fly out to Lewis' reach. Wood took Herzog's grounder and threw to Wagner, who then tossed it to Gardner, who touched out Merkle on the line. Herzog took second in the play when he scored in Meyer's single to left. Fletcher got a single to right. Meyers taking third when Gardner dropped Hooper's perfect throw. Fletcher went to second on the play. Meyers scored on an infield hit by Tesreau, which Wood was hardly able to intercept. Fletcher scored on a delayed steal. Tesreau was out the play. Cady to Yerkes, to Stahl to Wagner. Six runs, 7 hits, 1 error.

Both teams scored in the second. Hall going in for Boston. Devore, base on balls. Devore stole second. Cady's throw being wild, Doyle walked. Devore was caught off second by a quick throw from Hall to Wagner. Snodgrass singled to right. Doyle taking second, Doyle scored when Hall threw wildly to catch him napping. The ball went into center field. Snodgrass took third. Murray flew out to Wagner. Merkle out. Wagner to Stahl. One run, 1 hit, 1 error.

The Giants scored two runs in the sixth one a home run by Doyle, and again in the seventh and ninth. The Red Sox scored two in the seventh and one in the eighth.

Wilson Sends Sympathy.

Trenton, N.J., Tuesday.—Gov. Woodrow Wilson today sent the following telegram to Colonel Roosevelt at Chicago:

"Please accept my warmest sympathy that your wound is not serious." Governor Wilson went Philadelphia this afternoon to consult a throat specialist. He will return to Princeton to-night.

WILL PROBATED.

The will of Marianne H. Dwight of York was allowed in the York County Probate court held at Bladeford on Tuesday. Her estate is estimated at $10,000.

COUNSEL CLASH IN SUPERIOR COURT

Action for Restraining Police-men from Receiving Money for Chasing Dogs the Cause.

In the Superior Court on Tuesday Judge Mitchell announced that he would hear court cases for the remainder of the week. He will return to this city Oct. 29, and will hear court cases until Nov. 6, when he will move over to Derry. He will return to this city again Dec. 3, when the petit jury will report for the first time.

The ordinary routine of the day progressed smoothly until case 203 in the equity docket was reached. The case is that of Charles H. Quinn against the city of Portsmouth, Mayor Daniel W. Badger, City Treasurer John K. Batchelder, Capt. Thomas J. Burke, and Patrolmen Frank W. West and James P. McCafferey et al. The police department. Mr. Quinn desires to restrain the city from paying Capt. Burke and two patrolmen for extra work in chasing dogs.

City Solicitor Samuel W. Emery, Jr., attorney for the defendants asked the court to hear the case this morning. Attorney Arthur O. Fuller of Exeter, who represents Mr. Quinn said that Mr. Emery had handed him the answer in the case less than half an hour before, and that he had not had time to pursue the papers. Mr. Emery said that the three men have been waiting for their pay since July. Mr. Fuller answered that they have received their daily pay as members of the police department.

In concluding his talk Mr. Fuller said he saw little need for hurry, especially in a presidential year, and he characterized the demand of the city solicitor as beyond precedent and utterly absurd. The two lawyers will look over the papers with Judge Mitchell, who will then determine the time for hearing.

TO MEET IN DOVER.

Fortieth Annual Convention Will Be Held Next Week.

The fortieth annual convention of the New Hampshire Sunday School Association will be held in Dover on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 21, 22 and 23. There will be six conferences on Missionary Study in the Sunday School conducted by Ralph E. Duffenderfer of New York, Sunday school secretary of the Young People's Missionary Movement.

There will be six conferences on Bible Study led by Prof. M. A. Honthe of Ohio, who was a Bible Study expert of the leading team of the recent Men and Religion Movement. There will be three addresses by W. C. Pearce of Chicago, assistant general secretary of the International Sunday School Association. Miss Margaret Slattery of Boston, whose name has become famous throughout the Sunday School world, will deliver an address.

In addition to the above there will be conferences and addresses by several of the leading Sunday School workers of the state.

RIGHTS OF CANDIDATES.

Ballot Commission Meets Today and May Give Something on New Ruling.

The ballot commissioners will hold a meeting at Concord today at which former Attorney General E. G. Eastman will ask as to a new ruling on the question of the right of a candidate who has been defeated in the primaries to gain a place on the ticket for the same office by filing the necessary nomination papers. This was decided in the negative two years ago.

QUESTION OF SALARY.

Newburyport City Officials Summoned to Supreme Judicial Court Regarding Vacation Pay for Police.

Newburyport, Oct. 14.—Mayor Burke, City Marshal McLean and the Board of Aldermen were served with notice today to appear in Supreme Judicial court at Boston, Oct. 22, and show cause why a writ of mandamus should not be issued ordering them to approve the claims of policemen for pay during vacations.

The aldermen passed an order granting the officers the usual 10 days' pay, but Mayor Burke vetoed it. Then the board passed the order over the veto and several of the officers took vacations. When they came to get their pay, however, they found that Mayor Burke had taken their names off the payrolls. It is understood that the State Police Association is backing the men.

The Difference.

If you live out West you may have seen old people that were scalped by the Indians and survived the operation. It was not a pleasant one, and often proved fatal.

The difference between republican revision of the tariff and the democratic revision is the difference between a hair-cut and scalping. A good hair-cut is not unpleasant in the operation, and tends to health and clean living. Scalping is very painful, and may prove fatal.

President Taft and the republican party propose to revise the tariff wherever necessary to keep it within wholesome bounds. Wilson and the democracy propose to tear protection from the head of American industry and leave it quivering and helpless at the mercy of Europe and Japan.

Obviously the safe and sane course is to re-elect President Taft, elect a republican Congress, and make sure of a revision of the tariff by friends of American industry.

A Bourbon of Bourbons.

Except as showing the bias of the man whom the democratic party has nominated for president of the United States it would hardly be worth while to quote his views on the issues of slavery and secession, as published in a volume called "Division and Reunion," intended for use as a textbook. Woodrow Wilson proves himself in that work to be saturated with old-time Southern prejudices and Southern contempt for everything and everybody connected with the abolition agitation, the struggle for the liberation of Kansas, and the great uprising in the North against the would-be destroyers of the Union. Wilson exhibited himself in these pages as a "Bourbon of the Bourbons," as he has been aptly called, and as utterly lacking in that inspiration of the New South, which is surely if slowly lifting up that section from the ashes of the perished past to a wholesome realization of the duties and opportunities of the living present.

The Chicago Post comments as follows: "War in the Balkans" is a far-off, unreal, newspaper event, no matter how much we may read of it. But when we see 300 of our own young Greeks, breaking their plans for American citizenship, donning their uniforms as "reservists" in the Greek army, and marching through our own streets to Polk street depot to "go to the front," this distant conflict takes on a realer meaning. It is just as hard for wives and mothers along Blue Island avenue to send their boys to the field of battle today as it was for the wives and mothers of Chicago to do that same thing in 1861. And it is right that Chicago should feel in the going of those 300 young men some of the same pride that she felt when her own sons went to war. For in her adopted sons has come her great strength. The "Three Hundred" should go forth from our streets with the stirring cry of their fathers ringing in their ears: "Honor and Victory!"

The New York Sun remarks that while the presidential campaign in the United States has its acrobatics, on the whole it is orderly and even dull. "Hurling the lie" is almost the only violence. Conditions are different in Cuba, where a successor to President Gomez is to be elected. Political meetings often end in a fistfight between the liberals and conservatives and men are killed and wounded. At Colon, in the province of Matanzas, Monday, 200 shots were fired in a collision between the partisans of Vice President Zayas, the liberal candidate, and General Menocal, the conservative leader; in this affair, as in others of late, the general's followers proved to be the better shots, for two liberals were killed and six wounded, while the casualties on the other side were only two conservatives wounded.

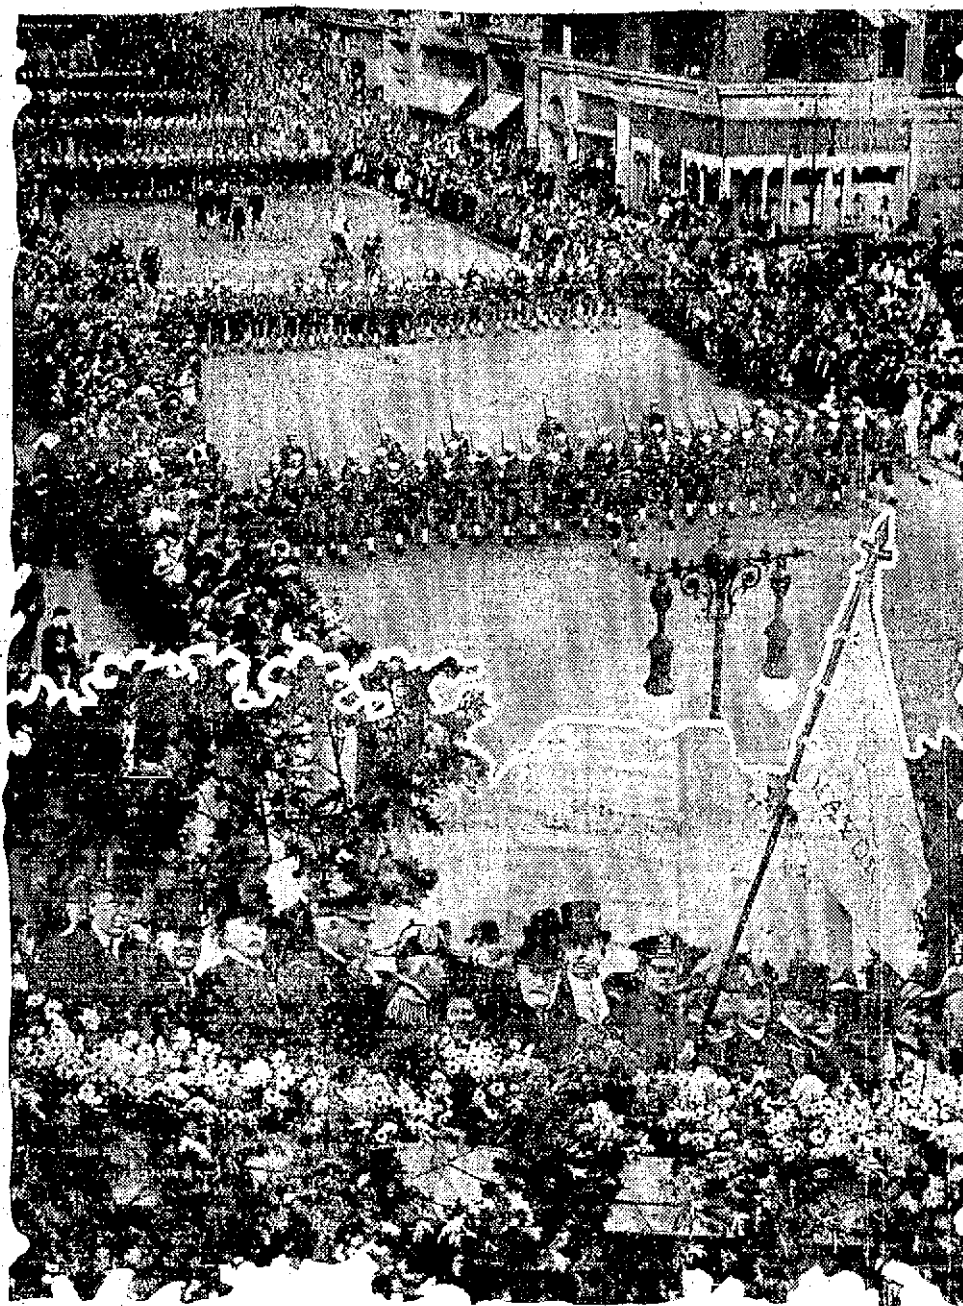

The New York Sun tersely remarks that the Newark children who demand the recall of their school teacher are merely serving as boy scouts in the struggle for equal justice.

The Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph says: Oh, well, think of the excitement there will be next year when the world's championship games are played at Forbes Field.

A gentleman in a position to know says President Taft is not wearing crape on his arm owing to Winston Churchill's refusal to meet him up in the White Mountains. Evidently President Taft does not allow tribes to annoy him.

A practical man with high ideals who ventures into certain phases of politics has to be a diplomat to prevent his ambition from quarreling with his conscience.

Atlantic Fleet Sailors on Parade In New York; Mayor Gaynor and Others on Reviewing Stand.

Photos by American Press Association.

The parade of sailors of the Atlantic fleet down Fifth avenue during the stay of the battleships in New York harbor was witnessed by upward of half a million persons. On the reviewing stand in front of the Public Library at Forty-second street were many notables. Mayor Gaynor is easily distinguishable in the lower photograph near the center. At his right hand is Rear Admiral Osterhaus, while at the latter's right hand is Major General Barry, commander of the department of the east.

Current Comment.

ROOSEVELT, WILSON AND TARIFF

Mr. Roosevelt's impatience with Mr. Wilson on the tariff question has both a serious and a comic side. There is some warrant for the feeling, for Mr. Wilson is handling the question in his speeches in a very hazy way. In one address he appears as an old-fashioned foe of protection. Echoes of Samuel J. Tilden, John G. Carlisle, Henry Watterson and the famous "Tar-see Merchant" are heard. Protection is unconstitutional and harmful, and must be destroyed. In another address he appears as a defender, a champion, of protection. He soothes the robber barons with soft words. Let them not be uneasy. No tariff legislation is meditated on lines to disturb their investments. All business will be safe in democratic hands.

It is easy to point out and explain Mr. Wilson's contradictions and embarrassments. They spring out of his position as leader of a party divided on the tariff, and yet battling for power with the tariff as the issue. One day he appeals for the support of free trade democrats, and the next day for the support of protection democrats. He cannot reach the White House unless both factions of the party respond. If he does reach goal by a union of the factions? That, in the language of Mr. Kipling, is another story.

But in showing Mr. Wilson up, Mr. Roosevelt shows himself up; and he cuts no better figure than the man he criticizes. He claims to be a protectionist, but of a new school. He wants the tariff put into the hands of a commission. Away with the old form of revision. That was inadequate, and produced injustice and special privilege. Congress was not properly equipped by it for its work. The proper caper, the progressive caper, is a commission of experts, with far larger powers than those bestowed on the late tariff board, whose duty it shall be to investigate the whole subject, rearrange the schedules, and adjust duties to the needs of capital, of labor and of consumer.

Beautiful, from the Rooseveltian point of view, and completes his scheme for reducing Congress to nothing and exalting the president to the skies. With a commission—headed or dominated by George W. Perkins—for the regulation of trusts; with another commission appointed by himself for regulating the tariff, and with still another commission, headed by Gifford Pinchot, for fixing and executing a policy for conservation, Mr. Roosevelt would realize much of his desire to be complete master of the situation.

In the matter of the tariff the Constitution is in his way. Under that antiquated and obstructive instrument, Congress alone has the power to levy taxes, arrange tariff schedules and fix rates of duty. But so much the worse for the obstruction. The Rooseveltian shibboleth is, "The Constitution must go!"—Washington Star.

The Latest Democratic Recruit

Pity the embarrassments, not to say the sorrows of senator Works of California!

Until recently, a republican, he has left the party because of its lack of progressiveness. Demanding progressiveness, he rejects the so called progressive party, because of its dishonest juggling of the suffrage in his home state in the interests of Theodore Roosevelt. So he lands with both feet in the democratic party, and will vote for Wilson and Marshall.

Is Mr. Works likely to remain long in his new quarters? If the democratic party wins with its progressiveness suit him? When he was a republican he was a protectionist, and the whole Pacific coast is opposed to the mere suggestion of sentiment as respects the Philippines. And when a republican he too the western view of conservation, and did not interpret the policy as hampering development.

What will Mr. Works do when the tariff is taken up by the next Congress? Will a bill fashioned on the Baltimore platform, or in part, so suit him? And if it is ought to give legislative expression to the democratic proposition of early independence for the Philippines, will he support the movement? And how far will he go with his new allies as to conservation, a policy of much interest in the west?

The row at the republican national convention over delegates caused much regret in republican circles generally. But there were many excellent members of the party, who, while regretting the row refused to leave the party on account of it. They knew of the treachery that had been attempted in Mr. Roosevelt's behalf and they saw nothing alluring in the promises of the democratic party. So they decided to remain where they were and try for the progress and improvement they desired within the ranks of the old organization.

But Mr. Works losing faith has changed base. Too progressive for his old associates and too honest for cooperation with those who are making a mockery of progress in California, he goes over to the democrats and for the moment endows them with all his senatorial goods.

But suppose California votes for Roosevelt. Suppose the dishonest juggling with the suffrage in endorsed at the polls. Will Mr. Works elected as a republican, and now representing a constituency submitted as he thinks to fraud, retain his commission? It is most likely that another demand will be made for his resignation and the circumstances supposed the question will take on a new and different interest.—Washington Star.

A LESSON IN ART.

TAFT'S MESSAGES ON ROOSEVELT SHOOTING

TO THE PUBLIC.

"I cannot withhold an expression of horror at the act of the maniac who attempted to assassinate Col. Roosevelt.

"This assault, following the shooting of Mayor Gaynor two years ago, and the assassination of three out of the last nine of the presidents elected by our people, are events which must cause solemn reflection by all Americans upon conditions which make it possible that such lastingly deeds may occur in a country affording to its citizens such complete advantages of civil liberty.

"The condemnation of all good citizens of such acts, with their co-operation in preventing the spread of vicious doctrines which would excuse or palliate an attempt to remedy fancied wrongs by resort to violence will be more effective.

"I speak for the American people in expressing profound hope that Col. Roosevelt may speedily recover from the effects of this dastardly act."

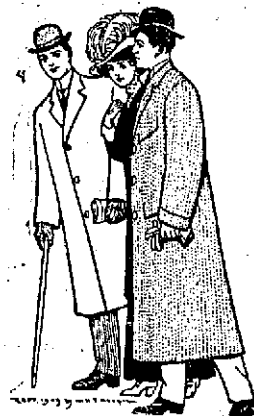

TO COL. ROOSEVELT.

"I am greatly shocked to hear of the outrageous and deplorable assault upon you, and I earnestly hope and pray that your recovery may be speedy and without suffering."

TO MRS. ROOSEVELT.

"I extend to you my heartfelt sympathy in your present distress. I earnestly hope and pray that you and your family and the country may be promptly relieved of suspense by news that all danger is passed."

PRES. TAFT REVIEWS DEPARTING FLEET

Sails From New York With President Looking On.

New York, Oct. 15.—The great armada of battleships stretching for 15 miles up the Hudson weighed anchor today preparatory to steaming out to sea in review before President Taft. When the last of the 21 gun salutes dies away, it will end the greatest mobilization in the history of the American Navy.

President Taft, who spent the night aboard the yacht, Mayflower, was joined this morning by Sec. of the Navy, Meyer, after which the Mayflower, followed by the Dolphin and the Nashville, left her anchorage off West 31st st. and proceeded to a point near the Statue of Liberty. From this point the President was to witness the great procession of ships.

The line was led by the flagship Connecticut, with Rear Admiral Osterhaus, fleet commander, aboard. Then followed the battleships, then the cruisers, then the torpedo boats, destroys and other smaller crafts of the fleet—123 in all.

Tens of thousands of persons gathered to watch the departure from vantage points, from the Battery to Spuyten Duyvil.

All traffic on the Hudson River and in the Upper New York Harbor was halted for three hours today for the review. Thousands of persons who usually cross the river by ferries were crowded into the tunnels under the To-night.

Tilton, has a force of workmen today ripping up the coating and the roller is being manned by George Hayes. The crushed stone and tar arrived last week and is left on Front street. The work will probably be in progress for several and passing will be stopped during that period.

Water street has been torn up during the past two years, the resurfacing being done two years ago in the summer, and last summer it was torn up in order to place the Western Union wires under ground.

During the past few weeks highway agent Tilton has done much work on Exeter's streets and especially on the outskirts where the country roads were in a poor condition. Improvements have been made on the Newmarket road at Conner's Mill and also the so called String bridge.

Close to half a hundred theatre patrons took the special train last evening for Dover to attend the performance last evening of the Bohemian Girl at the Dover Opera House. The train also took on many at Newfields, Newmarket and Durham. With the passing of the Exeter and Portsmouth street railway the Portsmouth theatres now draw but a few from this section. In past years almost nightly the cars were well patronized with theatregoers, and on special occasions cars were run. Twice within the past week there has been a special train run to Dover, the one last week taking members of the I. O. O. F. lodges in this section to hear Grand Sire G. A. Kellar of San Antonio, Texas. It is likely that more specials will run to that city during the play going season.

The old yard arms of the Exeter and Portsmouth street railway which has been a defunct line since last April are being shipped to Merrimac, Mass., to be used in that section. They have been hauled through town in special cars over the Exeter Hampton, and Amesbury line.

A PLURALITY VOTE TO ELECT

Representatives Is the Opinion of Attorney General Tuttle.

Attorney General James P. Tuttle holds that a plurality vote will elect representatives to the general court, and that the statute providing for such election has not been affected by the changes in the law which were enacted in 1897 and 1911. His opinion in the matter is as follows:

In my opinion the combined effect of the legislation of 1891, Chap. 49, Sect. 25, 1897 Chap. 78, Sects. 19 and 21, and 1911 Chap. 102, Sect. 1 is to require that representatives to the general court should be elected by a plurality vote. For as a part of the law referred to in 1897 it was repealed but was ratified and confirmed by the enactment; and as the law of 1911 only repealed Sect. 10 of the law of 1897 the provisions of the law of 1897 as to the election by a plurality vote now stands unimpaired and in full force.

NOTHING FOR PLAYERS

The Will Not Get Share of the Tie Game Proceeds

Boston, October, 16.—The plea of the players for a share in the proceeds of the tie game in this city on October 9 was refused today by the national commission.

The players appointed a committee consisting of Mathewson, of New York, and Carrigan of Boston, to appear before the commission, but at the time set Carrigan had not shown up, nor had President Ban Johnson of the American league appeared. Mathewson was heard by Garry Hermann and Thomas L. Lynch. Mathewson was informed that the commission had no power to change the rules drawn up for the series and ratified by the two leagues.

CONTEST OVER A WILL.

Boston, Oct. 15.—A contest over the will of Charles H. Pratt, who left practically his entire estate, valued at $599,005, to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has begun in the probate court. Mr. Pratt directed that his property remain at interest until it amounted to $750,000 when it was to go to found a school of naval architecture at Technology. Fifteen heirs-at-law, seven of whom are contesting the will, include Clarence Stetson of New York; Mrs. Rosa A. Brown of Albany, N. Y.; and Mrs. Mary Anna Martin of Acuteville, Va.

PERSONALS.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Jackson Rider and Mr. Rider's father, Thomas H. Rider are visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Emery of New York City.

Miss Helen S. Walker of Middle street was among the alumnus visitors at Smith college during the past week.

Miss Winifred Scott is the guest of her grandparents in Lewiston.

Miss Nellie Patterson of Brunswick, Me., is the guest of relatives in this city.

DYNAMITE INVESTIGATION.

Boston, Oct. 15.—The investigation of the alleged illegal distribution of dynamite in Lawrence during the textile strike there last winter was resumed today by the Suffolk county grand jury after a recess of several weeks. Walter Lamont, agent of the Wood mill of the American Woolen company, and William S. Jewett, editor of a Lawrence paper, were summoned to appear before the grand jury.

Dover Odd Ladies Visit Star Lodge of This City.

Twenty-six members of Granite State Lodge of Odd Ladies went to Portsmouth last evening where they attended the meeting of Star Lodge, No. 2, and witnessed the public installation of the officers. The officers were installed by Right Worthy Lady Governoress of the New Hampshire State Government, Mrs. Lizzie Tuttle of this city. The work was performed in the most efficient manner.

At the close of the installation a fine supper was served by the members of Star Lodge. The party from this city arrived home on the 11 o'clock car on the Atlantic Shore Railway, highly pleased with their visit and hospitable entertainment.—Foster's Democrat.

NO RESULT REACHED.

Lucy, Switzerland, Oct. 15.—No definite result was reached at the peace conference between Italian and Turkish delegates, but further sittings are to take place today. A less optimistic feeling prevailed as to the outcome.

COL. ROOSEVELT'S WOUNDS MAY PROVE SERIOUS

Bullet Located and Will Be Removed --Danger From Blood Poisoning.

Chicago, Oct. 15. As a result of the bullet from the revolver of John Schrank, assassin at Milwaukee last night, Theodore Roosevelt must remain in the hospital at least ten days. As a result of a second X-ray photograph it is known that the bullet is lodged against the fourth rib on the Colonel's side, and that it did not enter the lung. It is possible that no operation will be able to remove the bullet, but it is expected that it will be taken to Oyster Bay. According to the understanding here, the wound is not necessarily serious, blood poisoning being the only likely complication. As the doctors put the bullet in a safe place, the following official statement was issued at 10:30 A. M. by the surgeons attending Colonel Roosevelt:

Colonel Roosevelt's hurt is a deep bullet wound of the chest wall without striking any vital organ in transit. The wound was not probed. The point of entrance was to the right of and one inch below the level of the right nipple. The range of the bullet was upward and inward, a distance of four inches deeply on the chest wall. There was no evidence of the bullet penetrating the lung. Pulse 90; temperature 99.2; respiration 20; leucocyte count 32 at 10 A. M. No operation to remove bullet is indicated at the present time. Condition hopeful but wound so important.

as to demand absolute rest for a number of days.

Medical men, when shown the official statement issued by the surgeons attending Colonel Roosevelt, seemed to think conditions most favorable. About one o'clock this afternoon physicians in charge of Colonel Roosevelt's case began another examination of the wound.

Ends Speech-Making Campaign.

Formal announcement was made by Colonel Roosevelt's secretaries at the hospital that the Colonel would not attempt to make any more speeches during the campaign unless unforeseen circumstances arise. However, the campaign committee might consider it necessary for the candidate to make one address in New York and Oct. 26 was mentioned as a possible date for a Madison Square Garden speech if the Colonel was able.

The special car, the Mayflower, in which the Colonel has been traveling, and the "Sunbeam," the correspondent's car, which has been run with Colonel Roosevelt's car, were released this morning.

The first person whom the Colonel asked to see after he had his black-

East was Very Rev. Edward J. Vothman, a former army chaplain who retired with the rank of major. He and the Colonel are old friends and this morning they enjoyed a chat of twenty-five minutes.

Roosevelt Rushed to the Hospital. This course followed instead of keeping him in special car.

The Colonel, with the bullet still in his chest, was taken to Mercy Hospital at three this morning after a consultation of physicians, who ordered a second X-ray examination with a view to an immediate operation. It was planned at first to allow the patient to rest in his special car in a quiet part of the railway yards, but after he had been seen by Dr. J. B. Murphy the plan was vetoed and he was hurried away in an automobile.

A throng was waiting when the special train came to a stop here. There was no cheering, the crowd watched in silence, while a line of policemen hedged the front rank from approaching the train. Colonel Roosevelt roused himself for a moment when the motion of the train ceased. He peered out of his window. One of the first things he saw was an ambulance.

"I'll not go to any hospital in that thing," he declared. "When I go I'll go in an ambulance, and I'll walk it and I'll walk to the hospital from the car. I'm no weakling to be carried by a fresh wound."

Dr. Murphy was called to examine Roosevelt at 5 A. M. and announced that an immediate operation was necessary. A second examination to ascertain the extent of the wound located the bullet deep in the tissues, but a safe distance from the lung. A telegram at once was sent to Mrs. Roosevelt in New York by the Colonel's order. It read:

"Present examination shows no further danger besides that of which further danger besides that of which you were informed from Milwaukee. Respiration.

BETWEEN TAFT AND WILSON.

Republican National Committeeman Estabrook Says There Has Been a Great Clearing Up of Situation.

New York, Oct. 15, P. M. W. Estabrook, member of the executive committee and member from New Hampshire of the Republican National Committee, said today:

"Reports which have been coming in to the Republican National headquarters during the past 10 days make it practically certain that Mr. Taft will be elected. I am not alone in this opinion. It is shared by well-posted men all over the country.

"There has been a great clearing of the situation during the past two weeks. It is now absolutely certain that the issue is between Taft and Wilson. It is simply a straight out fight between the republican and democratic candidates.

"Unless all signs fail, Roosevelt will not carry a single State, except possibly California, and he would not have a chance there were it not that Gov. Johnson's machine has disfranchised the republicans of that State. This dishonest machine has made it practically impossible for the republicans there who want to vote for President Taft to cast their ballots for electors pledged to him. The Roosevelt and Johnson people there are not honest enough to stand out and fight square. However, there is so much disgust with their high-handed methods that Wilson and not Roosevelt will probably carry California.

"In fact, it is now plain that the Roosevelt third term and third party movement is collapsing."

WORDS OF PRESIDENT.

New York, Tuesday, President Taft issued a long statement on board the Mayflower this afternoon relative to the shooting of Colonel Roosevelt.

"I can not without an expression of horror," he said, "at the act of the maniac who attempted to assassinate Colonel Roosevelt."

USE OF MOURNING BORDERS

There Are a Few Set Rules, But Individual Taste Practically Determines the Question.

The average person chooses her mourning borders by individual taste rather than by rule and rarely changes the width until second mourning.

Good taste avoids the flaunting of grief and rarely countenances a border wider than a quarter of an inch, even for a widow. Even this is a trifle wide; three-sixteenths of an inch is a better width for widows, parents or children, and an eight of an inch for a sister or brother.

The paper used is dead white linen of plain weave and lusterless. It is bad form to have a mourning border on striped or fancy paper, even though the color is kept white. Where a transparent paper is liked, as for foreign correspondence or to save postage, besides the border there is a separate lining of black tissue paper for each envelope.

Addresses and monograms are often stamped in unrelieved black. Some persons prefer them embossed in relief without color, especially if there be telephone and telegram numbers in addition to the address. When these are all in black they look less overpowering if a miniature receiver and telegraph pole and lines are used instead of the word telephone or telegram.

As mourning borders are expensive, the stationery of grief is costly. It can rarely be had by the pound as other papers, but sometimes is cheaper by the box, containing several quires. As there is usually a reduction for getting a large quantity, it pays to lay in a supply.

Correspondence cards carry the same borders as writing paper. When there are no engraved acknowledgments these cards are quite large enough for a few words of appreciation. Sometimes a sentence is written across the top of the visiting card.

Black bordered envelopes to fit the visiting card should be bought by the hundred, as the card will do social duty during the entire period of mourning.

HAS A LARGE VOCABULARY

Number of Words Used by Small Child Will Surprise One Who Is Not a Close Observer.

How many words does the ordinary child know? Fifty? Wrong. A hundred? Wrong again. Five hundred for a wild guess? A little nearer, but not much. The truth is that people underestimate the number of words their children can speak.

Take a paper and pencil, follow the child for several days, several weeks putting down every new word that is uttered. You'll find out some things that will surprise you. And when the word "child" is used, it does not refer to a boy or girl of seven or eight, but one of three.

An investigation recently made by following a child at that age and noting every word that was used, showed that it had memorized 1,771 different words. They covered practically everything with which the child came in contact, and were words the child had never heard before.

Another investigation of words used by children between 1 year and 19 months old showed that the lowest vocabulary that was reported included the use of 60 words. The highest was 232 words. From two years on, the vocabulary of a child increases rapidly, until at three years the average child has a vocabulary of at least 1,000 words.

"The Brave Old Oak."

Whether its branches show green against a dark-blue sky—gold where the sunlight touches them—whether its leaves show magenta in the light of the setting sun, or black and silver in the moonlight, there is no tree of them all to compare with the oak. All a summer's day you may lie stretched beneath it, so strong and so friendly, not to you only, but to all the little lives that swarm about its roots. All kinds of busy creatures, ants, spiders, daddy-long-legs, beloved of your childhood, go scurrying over you on this errand and that, as unafraid, almost, as if you were dead. A feeling of kinship comes to you: a knowledge that all this life about you in oak and grass and insect, and the good dog lying at your feet, is but a little part of the ageless flux and reflux; soothingly as a cool hand on an aching head, there comes to you the realization that soon, fears, hates and loves forgotten, your tired body shall rest under the trees all the days and all the nights.—Atlantic.

Looking Ahead.

The hotels in the west end of London were somewhat crowded—some what—during the busy summer months, and service in some of the restaurants was slow.

One morning a big well-dressed man walked into one of the hotel dining-rooms and pounded on the table. A waiter came over.

"Breakfast bill of fare!" ordered the big man.

The waiter gave him one and stood at attention, whereupon the guest proceeded to order a most ornate breakfast. When he had finished he looked over on the waiter's record of the order and approved it.

"We'll serve it right away, sir."

"Serve it right away!" roared the big man. "Who asked you to serve it right away? I'm ordering this breakfast now for tomorrow morning."

PAIN IN THE ROYAL NOTICE

Composer Had Occasion to Remember Former Time That Maria Theresa Honored Him.

An amusing incident of the healthy boyhood of the great composer, Joseph Haydn, is given by Mary Maxwell Moffat in her biography of the Austrian empress, Maria Theresa.

When von Reutter became choir-master of St. Stephen's cathedral he had Joseph Haydn among his pupils. During a visit to the Hungarian Prince Esterhazy, in 1773, Maria Theresa took occasion to say a word of praise to Haydn, who had composed the music of the opera given in her honor, and had conducted the performance. She expressed the conviction that she had seen him before, although she could not remember the occasion.

"The last time your majesty was pleased to take notice of me," said Haydn, "you ordered me a good thrashing."

"That does not sound like me," rejoined the empress. "How did it happen?"

Then Haydn told of a Whittau incident when, with other pupils of von Reutter, he had been brought to Schoenbrunn to sing in the chapel. Between the services the boys took to clambering over the scaffolding of the new wings of the palace. The empress caught sight of them, and sent word forbidding the dangerous sport. But the attraction of the scaffolding was irresistible; on the following day the boys were again risking their necks.

When Maria Theresa expostulated with von Reutter, his surmise that the ringleader was "that young scamp, Joseph Haydn," led her to suggest that the rod be used to improve his memory.—Youth's Companion.

BEST EXERCISE FOR WOMEN

Popularity of Fencing Justified in Results That Follow Its Persistent Practice.

Fencing is always popular with women who have the leisure and the opportunity to go through with the required training, and lately it has become even more the fashion with women prominent in society. Even during the summer, while they were away at their country or seaside homes, many women kept up their fencing lessons, having the instructor come to their homes for the purpose.

All experts in physical training rate fencing as the best possible means of exercise for women. It ranks with swimming and rowing in that it gives all the development needed without making the muscles too heavy, as do some of the other sports. For the woman of today who longs above everything else to be slender and supple, it is the ideal exercise. Those women who are so faithful to their fencing lessons have discovered that a brisk half hour with the foil is more effective in keeping their figures girlishly lithe and slender than a half day spent at heavier and less graceful forms of exercise.

Work of Chemical Engineer.

Great is the debt that the new south owes to the chemical engineer, whose contributions are enumerated by a writer: "The utilization of the formerly wasted cotton seed in oil making and the employment of the pressed hulls as a cattle feed; the production of glycerin from cotton seed oil; the use of the vast clay and shale beds in brick and tile manufacture; and the opening up of deposits of phosphates and phosphate rock that yield commercial fertilizers. Through his experiments and advice the pine forests formerly destroyed in obtaining turpentine may now be saved, while lumber, as it has been pointed out that turpentine can be obtained from waste sawdust slabs and old trees or stumps cut down or blown down by storms. High grade oak ties for railroad use may be made to last longer than before and low grade lumber (such as loblolly pine) can be made as efficient as untreated oak by simply impregnating the timber with creosote oil, and it is now a thriving industry throughout the south."

"Going Out to See a Man."

Artemus Ward, about half through his lecture, announced a recess for fifteen minutes, so as to go out and "see a man." H. R. Tracey, a Washington editor, seeing an opportunity to improve upon the joke, sent these lines to the platform:

"Dear Artemus: If you will place yourself under my guidance, I'll take you to 'see a man,' without crossing the street."

A restaurant keeper at that time in Washington was named Aman, to whom Ward was taken, and found Aman luxuriating at the well-laden refreshment board. Everybody "caught on" to the phrase, and, getting up between the acts and "going out to see Aman" became contagious.

Oyster Can Change Its Sex.

At the Academy of Science in Paris recently Edmond Perrier, director of the Museum of Natural History, submitted a series of singular researches by M. Danton, who has discovered that the sex of an oyster often varies in the same subject without apparent cause.

Another fact ascertained by M. Danton is the triumph of femininity among oysters, the male being the inferior and weaker sex, and as food conditions change for the better or worse, they transform themselves from one sex to the other.

Your Brain

Is a Battery

Its thoughts are the sparks that set Success in motion

The simplest form of battery requires three factors to make the electric spark—(zinc, copper and an acid.)

The human brain also requires three vital elements to put forth thought—water, albumen and Phosphate of Potash.

In the Brain as in the Battery, let a single element become weakened from yesterday's use and lessened activity follows. Therefore, in order to keep a good working brain or add to its power, one absolutely must use food which contains albumen and Phosphate of Potash.

Why not do a bit of thinking now?

Water and albumen exist plentifully in every-day food, but Phosphate of Potash is often lacking.

That missing element exists freely in the outer coating of wheat and barley, but the miller of white bread flour throws it out because it makes his flour brown instead of white.

Grape-Nuts FOOD

Made of choice wheat and malted barley, retains the rich brain-building Phosphate of Potash required by Nature for supporting bright brains and active minds.

Pure! Wholesome! Appetizing! This food is partly pre-digested and quickly absorbed. A morning dish with cream provides force for accomplishment that many a man has come to know and appreciate.

Common Sense goes a long way toward making Success.

To eat right often means to be right.

HOW TO TAKE A SUN BATH

Treatment is Declared to Be a Sure Cure for Many Varieties of the Ailments of Humanity.

The sun bath is rapidly gaining popularity. It was not unknown to the Romans, who indulged in sun baths to cure gout and rheumatism. The buildings they erected in their villas for the sunray treatment were styled solariums.

All that is needed is the sun; but it should not be allowed to beat down upon the head, which should be covered. The prospective sun-bather should get into an ordinary bathing costume and lie down in a convenient spot on a rug. Care should be taken to secure a position well out of the wind, and, of course, the body must be moved about every ten minutes to avoid undue burning of any specific part of the anatomy. Also, a bath should never by any chance last longer than an hour. Dizziness, extreme excitement, even faintness will be the inevitable result should this warning be disregarded.

The sun bath is said to be an almost infallible cure for certain skin diseases, for undue corpulence and run-down nerves.

Perhaps the cult of the sun bath is more popular at a small place near Berlin, where the adherents of the new and simple cure have formed themselves into an association.

GOOD HORSES STILL NEEDED

Raisers May Have Little Fear That the Supply Is Shortly Likely to Exceed the Demand.

The recent war game demonstrated the dearth of horses suitable for months in a section once famous for the excellence of its native horses. This community was scoured for suitable animals, and none was to be had, and the government agents said that the same conditions obtain elsewhere throughout the country, handicapping the army authorities greatly.

There is the germ of a profitable idea for our farmers in these facts. The man who has grazing facilities, and who will turn a part of his endeavors to the raising of a general purpose type of saddle horse, will not only reap a substantial money reward, but will perform a patriotic mission, not for the army, but for humanity.

The "honk" of the motor car need bring no fears to the men who will go into the perfecting of a type of horse to be known as the York state saddle horse. The aeroplane need cast no shadows over the project. Improve the horse. The better he becomes adapted to man's wants the more docile and safe, the more beautiful, the greater will the demand for him grow.—Troy Standard Press.

The Leader.

All, I think, will allow that these attributes should belong to a friend of the constitution; first, that he should be of free descent by both parents, no that the disadvantage of birth may not inhibit him against those laws which preserve the democracy. Second, that he should be able to show that some benefit has been done to the people by his ancestors; or, at the worst, that there has been no enmity between them which would prompt him to revenge the misfortunes of his fathers on the state. Third, he should be virtuous and temperate in his private life, so that no profligate expense may lead him into taking bribes to the hurt of the people. Next, he should be sagacious and able to speak—since our ideal is that the best course should be chosen by the intelligence—and then commended to his hearers by the trained eloquence of the orator—though, if we cannot have both, sagacity must needs take rank before eloquence. Lastly, he must have a stout heart or he may play the country false in the crisis of danger or war.—Aeschines (389-314 B. C.).

Too Big an Insult.

Angrily the head of the haberdashery concern stormed into the employment agency and demanded an interview with the manager.

"I understand," he said, "that you have been recommending as A1 collectors certain young men whom you represent as having collected money from us. If they can get it from us, they can get it from anybody. That's the way you make it appear, consequently your clients land good jobs."

With visions of possible libel suits rising before his guilty conscience, the agent attempted self-justification.

"You are considered pretty hard nuts, you know," he said.

"Oh, that's all right!" said the man. "It ain't that I'm kicking about, but not one of your men has ever collected a dollar at our shop, and it don't do any good to lie about it."

Wireless Power Generated by Hand.

A new form of generator has been developed by the United States signal corps for use with its portable wireless telegraph sets. It consists of a small generator, the motor of which is driven by hand cranks through a suitable gearing. Two cranks are provided, so that two men may drive the motor at the same time, and if necessary four men may be employed—two at each handle. Low and high speed releases are provided, which disengage the driving gear when the speed rises above or falls below a predetermined limit, so that the motor may be kept at a fairly constant speed. The generator is capable of turning out about 200 watts, and it is light enough to be packed on a mule. The portable generating set has a sending capacity of about 15 miles.

Deacon Woods Willing to Get Guy Immediately in the Haps of Disarming Fate.

"I notice Mrs. Shumona is having a new porch put onto her house," said Deacon Wood, polishing his glasses. "Yes," said his wife, "she always wanted one clear across the front of the house, but Silas never would build one, so the first thing she did with some of the insurance money was to have one."

The deacon looked at his paper thoughtfully for a moment, then remarked:

"The Widder Davis is getting out a good many flowers, isn't she? She keeps getting seed catalogues at the postoffice."

"Yes," replied his wife, "her heart's been set on a posy-garden a good many years, but I should almost think 'twould make Jed Davis turn over in his grave. He always thought flowers was such a foolish waste of time and money."

For a time the deacon was silent; then he said, "Wasn't that a new rubber-tired buggy I saw Prunella White in yesterday?"

"Yes," said his wife, with animation, "and I'm glad she's got it at last. She rode round for years in an old farm wagon, though Leander could well afford a decent buggy for her and the girls, but if he'd a' lived they'd never have had one."

For a time the deacon remained sunk in thought; then he asked:

"If you had a considerable sum of money to do just what you wanted with, Mandy, what would you get?"

"I'd have me a hardwood floor in that kitchen," his wife said, firmly. "I never scrub that old floor but what I run my fingers full of splinters."

"Mandy," said her husband, with fervor, "you'll see the carpenters at work on that new floor tomorrow mornin'!" And the deacon resumed his paper with a sigh of relief.—Youth's Companion.

EAT PIE AND HAVE NO FEAR

Eminent Medical Authority Has Come Forward to Defend the Great American Edible.

Again, pie-eating defended—this time in the New York Medical Journal.

"In its proper place," says the Medical Journal, "pie is not only a palatable but a nutritious staple, an excellent vehicle of carbohydrates and fruit. It is not essentially indigestible, and demands only proper mastication and insalivation to insure lack of discomfort."

In other words, if we chew pie as persistently as we chew the rag about the indigestibility of pie we shall find it as sweetly digestible as it is blandly delectable.

"Pie crust," this authority goes on to say, "is only flour and lard, the latter being replaced usually by chicken fat by those who object to any form of pork. Delicacy of manipulation is required in the making of the crust, and such delicacy depends paradoxically upon great digital strength, for only the strong have a genuine lightness of touch."

Thus is expressed the armor-plate crusts so often the product of the delectable but weak "manipulation" of slender, pretty and youthful brides, as compared with the flaky, sea-fouly kind turned loose by older and stiffer-fingered mothers. But wait a moment; we can eat and even live in comfort upon our sweet girl graduates' pies after all, for the paper continues: "A soggy paste, however, made by trail fingers, is only aesthetically objectionable, for resolute chewing will deprive it of its terrors."

Now, however, comes the curse of the pie maker. We customarily "finish off" with pie and cheese after we have had a hearty dinner, and enough; but if we eat lightly and then have pie, or make pie and cheese answer for a whole meal, there is not the slightest ill effect from it.

Things Everlasting.

This lesson I learn from the past; that grace and goodness, the fair, the noble, and the true, will never cease out of the world till God from whom they emanate ceases out of it; that the sacred duty and noble office of the poet is to reveal and justify them to men; that as long as the soul endures, endures also the theme of new and unexampled song; that while there is grace in grace, love in love, and beauty

HAD FOLLOWED THE ADVICE

Lecturer Probably Was Not Proud of the Immediate Effect of His Discourse to the Students.

At a certain well-known medical college there is a staff lecturer who is never tired of dilating on the advantages of doctors being able to sleep at odd minutes. The gentleman in question, be it added, is as prosy in the enunciation of this theme as he is insistent upon it; wherefore he is affectionately known as "Cap-Naps."

He was for the hundredth time enlarging on his pet topic at the close of a long ninety minutes' discourse something like this:

"And let me again impress upon you, young gentlemen, the prime necessity of training yourselves to that invaluable habit of sleeping here there, and everywhere, whenever an unexpected fifteen minutes offers itself to recuperate your often exhausted energies. It may be in a car, with a ride ahead and no one at your elbow to annoy you. It may be in your consulting room, between calls—at first, you know, there may be intervals! It may come anywhere, any time; but seize the opportunity whenever you feel you are bored, perhaps with what is going on around you—when you feel your time is being unprofitably employed."

And then, from the back bench came two loud, unmistakable snores!

Antiquity of Tennis.

Tennis is probably one of the most ancient ball games, and was a sport long before cricket was dreamed of. Though undoubtedly not existing during the Arthurian period, tennis, or as it was called "tenez," is mentioned in the Arthurian legends, written in 1550, and the Knights of the Round Table were pictured as engaged in the sport when the weather was too hot for tournaments or jousts. From a very simple beginning, and through many centuries, the intricacy of the game's rules have been developed. Its present name seems to be a corruption of the term "tenez," which the server used in the same way "ready" is called out now. In the beginning the game was "you do paume," taken from the fact that the ball was struck with the hands instead of with a racket. Later the hand was encased in a glove and still later the glove was covered with strings, running criss-cross, from which condition there was but a short step to the short-handed racket. In feudal times the courts were merely open grass plots, oftentimes the lawn of a castle, and not till late in the seventeenth century was the court inclosed.

"Scotched."

An English general was in company where some Scotch gentlemen were present. After supper, when the wine was served up, the general rose and addressed the company in the following words: "Gentlemen, I must inform you that when I get a little too much drunk I have an absurd custom of railing against the Scotch; I hope no gentleman in company will take it amiss."

With this he sat down. A Scotch gentleman immediately rose, and, without seeming the least displeased, said: "Gentlemen, I, when I have drunk rather freely, and hear any person railing against the Scotch have an absurd custom of kicking him out of the company; I hope no gentleman will take it amiss." It is said that on that occasion the Scotchman had no opportunity for the exercise of his talents.

Assurance of Security.

'Tis sweet when the seas are rough, ened by violent winds to view on land the tolls of others; not that there is pleasure in seeing others in distress, but because man is glad to know him self secure. It is pleasant, too, to look with no share of peril on the mighty contests of war; but nothing is sweeter than to reach those calm, undisturbed temples, raised by the wisdom of philosophers, whence thou mayest look down on poor, mistaken mortals, wandering up and down in life's devious ways.—Lucrætiæ II.

SHOULD SHOW BRIGHT SIDE

Mr. Balfour's Idea of Literature Will Be Indorsed by Many of His Readers.

Mr. Balfour, in proposing the toast of "Literature" at the anniversary dinner of the Royal Literary fund at the Whitehall rooms recently, said:

"I think that literature is less cheerful now than it was when I was young. It may be because I am growing old that I take this gloomier view of literary effort, but still I personally like the spring day and bright sun and the birds singing, and if there be a shower or a storm, that it should be simply a passing episode in the landscape, to be followed immediately by a return to brilliant sunshine. While that is what I prefer I of course admit that the great, the picturesque, the striking storm is a magnificent subject for artistic treatment and is well worthy of the efforts of a great artist."

"I am not quite so sure, however, about the dreary day in which nothing is seen, in which the landscape does not change, in which there is a steady but not violent downpour of rain. I do not say that that ought not to be treated as a subject of literature, but it is not what I ask of literature."

"What I ask from literature mainly is that in a world that is full of sadness and full of difficulty, in which you come through the day wearied, in which you come back from your work-weary, you should find in literature something which represents life which is true in the higher sense of truth or what is imagined to be true, but which does cheer us. Therefore when I ask you to drink the toast of literature I shall myself so to say 'not literature merely, but that literature in particular which served the great cause of cheering us up.'—London Daily Mail.

MANY HOUSES OLD MAIDISH

Ida Tarbell Coins a Phrase That Seems to Pretty Well Express the Idea Conveyed.

One of the most repellent houses in which I have ever visited was one in which there was from garret to cellar, so far as I discovered, not one article which was not of the period limited, not one streak of color which was not "right," Ida M. Tarbell writes in the American magazine. It was a masterpiece of correct furnishing, but it was curiously limiting and stifling. You could not escape the scheme. The incastivity of it hampered sociability, and there grew on one, too, a sense of uneasiness. Its clothes were an anachronism! They were the only thing which did not belong.

There is an old fashioned adjective which describes better than any other this preoccupation with things, which so often prevents a woman's coming to an understanding of the heart of her business. It is old maidish. It has often been the pathetic fate of single women to live alone. To minister to themselves becomes their occupation. The force of their natures turns to their belongings. If in straitened circumstances they gave their souls to spotless floors, if rich to flawless mahogany and china, to perfect household machinery. Wherever you find in women this perversion—old maidish is perhaps the most accurate word for her—it is a sacrifice of the human to the material. A house with out sweet human life, without the trace of friends who have no sense of beauty, but who love to give, without the scars of use and the dust of rumpling feet—what is it but a meatless shell?

This devotion to "things" may easily become a ghouliah passion.

Callous Indeed.

"Well, I must confess I am glad to get back home amongst my old kin and friends, where people ain't too busy or too unfeeling or too stuck-up to take some interest in one another," said Mrs. Poller.

"Now, there's them post office folks down to Chicago. I found 'em actual ly hard-hearted! Why, would you believe it, that man that brings round the letters to Mabel's, he's so queer and standoffish that when he handed me husband's postal card, telling how mother had fell and broke her arm, he never so much as opened his lips to give me one word of sympathy! No, sir, not even enough to say, 'Too bad!'"—Youth's Companion.

Horse-Breeding in Britain.

Two interesting experiments in British horse breeding are referred to in a government report. First, a real attempt is being made to revive the fine hardy local breeds of ponies in Scotland and Wales, or small Welsh cart horses, and of Devonshire pack horses. Mares have been purchased and the county councils will superintend a scheme of scientific breeding. The second experiment is the creation of a new thoroughbred capable of use as a hunter. The animal is being "created" under the most recently discovered Mendelian laws of heredity, with the help of funds generously offered by Captain Part.

How to Make a Man Happy.

Nagging becomes a habit, and the woman who wants to make her home happy will avoid it like the plague.

It never does the slightest good, because if a man is nagged at his faults only increase. He gets tired of being perpetually reminded of them, and of having his shortcomings dinned into his ears.

Women generally nag because they are tired—tired of being "nervy," but this is no real excuse for it.

Try being sweet, and it will have a much better effect.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR INTER-CLUB TOURNAMENT

First Meet Will Be Held With the Elks on Nov. 7.

The final arrangements for the first annual inter club tournament between the Portsmouth Athletic Club and the Portsmouth Lodge of Elks have been made and the first meet will be held Nov. 7, and the following ones on the 13th and 20th of the same month.

On the first night the members of the club and lodge will meet in the Elks home where pitch and cribs will be played in the home, while two bowling teams are fighting it out on the bowling alleys at the rear of the home. The second series of contests will be in the Club house of the Portsmouth Athletic Club, Nov. 13, when pool and billiards will be played. The tournament will close Nov. 20. On that night the final play in pitch, in. Following the tournament a banquet will be served in the lodge home in charge of Ernest L. Chaney.

Mayor D. W. Badger will present the trophy to the winning team and there will be oratory from the representatives of both organizations. Following the banquet entertainment will be provided in the club house of the Athletic club on Court street.
